Carol Richardson is the Director of Major Gifts at the Gospel Center Rescue Mission (GCRM), serving San Joaquin County California. In this role, she is assigned to steward the Ministry’s many wonderful supporters as well as connect them to their GCRM philanthropic passions.

She received her Bachelors of Science in Social Science from Saint Thomas Aquinas College in Sparkill, New York in 2005. Carol is currently working to obtaining her Certified Fund Raising Executive Certification known as a CFRE – a five year process and most recognized professional certification in the fund raising community world-wide.

Before graduating from Saint Thomas Aquinas College, Carol worked as the Director of Advancement (Fund Raising) at MyChoice Pregnancy Center, a Christian nonprofit, in New Windsor, New York. After moving to Florida in 2012, Carol worked with a senior care company as Director of Marketing. She also volunteered and assisted her husband, Wayne, in his duties at Faith Farm Ministries as the Chief Operating Officer and Director of Development. In 2013, she was offered the role of Dean of Student Life at one of the fastest growing Christian colleges in America, South Florida Bible College and Theological Seminary located in Deerfield Beach, Florida. Carol excelled at this job until moving to Stockton in support of her husband in his new job as the Chief Executive Officer at the Gospel Center Rescue Mission.

In addition to volunteer work and humanitarian “Missions Trips” with her churches, Carol has worked with Hospice, the SPCA in New York and Virginia Beach, Samaritans Purse, and Operation Blessing International just to name a few. Carol and her husband, Wayne, have three adult children and two grandchildren. Carol and Wayne live in Stockton, California with their dog, Chipper, a Hospice dog. Carol enjoys exercise, dance, hiking, and spending time with her grandchildren.
