Britton Kimball, is currently the Chief Operations Officer at the Gospel Center Rescue Mission.

His job is to oversee the operations of all the programs, and everything that entails, from operations to conflict resolution. His responsibility is to make sure that all Departments are running well, and to find solutions to problems in those Departments.

He started working here fifteen years ago as a Houseman in the Men's Emergency Lodge Program and was asked to take on that Department as the Emergency Lodge Program Director.

He then took an active role on the Addiction Treatment Team, and eventually was asked to oversee The New Life Program as well, becoming the New Life Program Director.

This course of events continued until He was actually overseeing every Department and was then promoted to the Chief Operations Officer.

Britton states that he started working here at first to “give back to the society he had been taking from for quite some time, and to help people from his background achieve the impossible”. He soon realized that due to his background, he had a unique ability to reach the unreachable and the lost. He found real joy and satisfaction in doing something that he believes in. He further states “I have always had high wage jobs, but no sense of accomplishment or meaning. Watching the homeless come from despair, into programs, into self sustainment, and knowing I had a part in that, money cannot purchase. I would change nothing and have no regrets.

In 2003, He married the most beautiful woman in the world, Monica Kimball, who had two young children, 1 boy, 1 girl, which he raised as his own. Britton says they are the perfect couple.
